Early-Career Faculty
Course Design Institute
Sponsored by the ITS Office of Teaching Learning and Technology Center for Teaching

APPLICATION

The Early-Career Faculty Course Design Institute is a multi-day, interactive program that will guide participants through the process of designing or substantially revising a course. Instructors accepted into the institute will:

- Articulate their personal teaching philosophies
- Apply effective approaches to designing student-centered learning experiences
- Construct a course designed to maximize student learning

Benefits to participants include hands-on guidance in the process of developing or revising a course, professional development and networking, and opportunities for continued consultation and support.

This application will require you to affirm that your DEO supports your application to the Course Design Institute
